

? WHY PAY RENT ?

Buy a Home of Your Own in the beautiful CAPITOL HILL ADDITION. We have recently purchased the seventy acres of the old Brevard school, and have platted it in acre lots with wide streets and alleys. This property is nicely situated, being within from 8 to 10 blocks of the center of the business portion of Ada. We expect to give you a chance to own a valuable lot in the capital of Pontotoc county by selling these lots on the installment plan.

Ada is now the county seat, and has a great future before it. We have three railroads with a prospect of two more, a cotton compress, a cotton oil mill, a pressed brick plant, and numerous smaller industries. Also have a large cement plant under construction that will employ 250 men, there is under construction a canning factory and the city is spending $40,000 on additional water works.

WHY SHOULD ADA NOT GROW?

CAPITOL HILL lies northeast of the business portion of the city, and has a fine view of the city. Plenty of good water at from 15 to 20 feet.

If you get to grow up with the town now is the time to GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR.

We also do a general Real Estate and Insurance business. See us for any business in our line. Office first door west of the Harris hotel.

BEGINNING OF THE END OF ADA'S FEDERAL COURT

The letter published below would indicate Ada's career as a full fledged federal court town is already ended. It is inferable that no more grand juries will be empaneled here; that future felonious prisoners in this vicinity will be subject to the action of grand juries at Ardmore, which remains a federal court town under statehood; that the June term of court at Ada will be exclusively a clearing up term which will entertain no new business.

The letter in question follows:
 Mr. Ed Brents,
 Office Deputy Marshal,
 Ada, Indian Territory.

Dear Sir:
 Regarding bonds for appearance of defendants arrested on bench warrants you are respectfully advised that these bonds should be made returnable for the Ada Court on June 1, 1907.

U. S. Commissioner Winn has been directed to commit prisoners upon preliminary examinations for felony to answer to the Grand Jury at the U. S. Court at Ardmore on April 29, 1907, and in case these defendants execute bail that the bond be made returnable to Ardmore to answer the orders of the court in matters pending before the Grand Jury.

Very respectfully,
 G. A. Porter,
 United States Marshal.

Frisco Will Burn Oil.

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 28.—Local officials of the Frisco Railroad Company have received notice that after May 1 all passenger engines on the system between Springfield and Kansas City will be equipped with oil burners. At Springfield the company is building an oil storage tank which is expected to be completed by the above date.

FURNITURE

ON Easy Payment Plan

W. C. DUNCAN will sell you Furniture on the Easy Payment plan, so that those WITHOUT MONEY may buy as well as those with money. We have confidence in our town and think her prospects are brightening. Business is improving and labor is now all employed at good wages and the outlook is that it will continue to be so employed. Therefore now is the time to buy. We are willing to furnish your homes on the prospect of your future earnings. DON'T GO IN TOO DEEP, but buy what you can pay for in a few weeks and then buy again. We will be right here to sell you. In a short time you can furnish your home nicely and not miss the money.

DON'T FORGET that we buy SECOND HAND FURNITURE. Don't make the mistake of selling your goods without letting us bid on them. It won't cost you anything and may make you some money. We also exchange NEW GOODS for OLD and they may all go on the installment plan.

Also kindly remember that we carry a large line of Coffins, Caskets and Undertaking Goods and have a hearse and a licensed embalmer who will take complete charge of funerals when requested so to do without extra charge.

Keep your eye on this space, but don't wait until you see what you want advertised. It costs too much to advertise all our goods, but come straight to our store and tell us what you want. We will fix you up and guarantee satisfaction.

JIM CROW PROVISION DIES BY FINAL VOTE OF 46 TO 31

Guthrie, Ok., Feb. 28.—The Jim Crow provision was killed in committee of the whole in convention yesterday by a vote of 46 to 31. The special legal committee reported immediately following the reading of which the separate coach and waiting room provision was called up and a motion made to table it.

This ends one of the most spirited contests the convention has witnessed. It was led by Messrs. Haskell, Hayes and Henshaw.

It refused to adopt a provision under which prohibits aliens and corporations from holding or owning lands in Oklahoma. However, the latter may own sufficient land to conveniently operate their business.

It refused to adopt a provision under which the Legislature might place in operation the Torrens system of land registration.

The office of Labor Commissioner was created, the occupant to be elected by the people. Eight hours is declared a legal day in all State, county and municipal work.

The report on municipal corporations was partially adopted, except the privilege to frame charters was given to all cities of 2,000 people instead of 3,500. Under this provision any city desiring to adopt the commission form of government is at liberty to do so.

Work in committee of the whole which carries provisions to the point on final passage is about completed. A call of the committees developed there were only five more to fully report.

The committee on general provisions has recommended the adoption in the Constitution of a prohibition against bucket shops or stock exchanges, and that no person or firm be permitted to engage in the business of selling options

OUR JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Likely to be Composed of Five Neighboring Counties.

A telephone message from Guthrie today says it is practically settled by the committee having the apportionment in hand that this judicial district will be composed of these five counties: Pontotoc, Seminole, Coal, Atoka, Johnston.

Such district would include considerable railroad and mining interests. Under statehood each county would keep the district court busy from two to three months in the year.

The Guthrie message also says probably the work of the convention body will be finished by the last of next week, when all delegates will go home only to return later and adopt the work of the committee on style and arrangement.

or, futures or contracting for future delivery of any product of farm or labor, stock security when the actual delivery is not contemplated. The Legislature is authorized to name the penalty.

R. Sarils, a South McAlester business man, telegraphs the convention he will be one of fifty to make a purse of $50,000 to defray the expenses in framing a Constitution, and when the others have done likewise to draw on him for $1,000.

TRIBAL OFFICIALS WATCH FINAL CLOSING OF ROLLS

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 28.—Tribal officials are gathering in Muskogee to watch the final closing of rolls for Indian citizenship. After ten years the rolls of the five civilized tribes are about to be closed and after four days more no applications or evidence in an enrollment case will be heard.

Governor McCurtain of the Choctaws, Governor Johnston of the Chickasaws, W. W. Hastings attorney for the Muskogees, and J. P. Farnsworth attorney for the Creeks are here as well as Melvin Cornish attorney for the Choctaws and Chickasaws and George Scott, secretary for the Choctaw nation for the purpose of seeing that no person not entitled to enrollment slips in at the last moment.

Congress provided last year that after March 4, 1907, no application or evidence in enrollment cases should be heard, and no citizenship case should be reopened, even upon order of the secretary of the interior, and that the enrollment work of the five nations should close on that day. The secretary of the interior tried in many ways to get legislation through the present congress to repeal the former law, but it was bitterly opposed by all the nations and by Commissioner Bixby also. All of the tribes have been trying to get the rolls finally closed for five years.

The enrollment work was the biggest job the department of the interior has handled for a long time. While the enrollment work was in progress the allotting work was also being carried forward and it has been kept up comparatively close. The one great impediment to winding up the work of the final settlement of the Indian estate was to get the rolls closed so that they could not be disturbed. This is now about to be accomplished. Until it was done the secretary of the interior was constantly ordering cases reopened which would set the work back months at a time. This he will be unable to do after March 4.

The secretary of the interior has to pass on all citizenship matters before him before March 4 and there are hundreds of cases now in his hands. Until he has passed on these it will be impossible to tell how many people have been admitted to citizenship for allotments, but in round numbers it is about 90,000. There have been 250,000 applicants. Less than one out of every five applicants was admitted.

PONTOTOC AND SEMINOLE OUR FLOTORIAL DISTRICT

The legislative districts, forty-one Senatorial and 106 Representative, were reported to the convention Wednesday. Previously, however, the report fixing the maximum number of Senators at forty was reconsidered and one more district authorized. It is estimated that upon anything like a normal election the Legislature will have a Democratic membership of eighty in the House and thirty in the Senate.

According to the first report prepared by the committee Pontotoc was joined with Coal county to form a flotorial district. As it now stands, however, Pontotoc and Seminole counties compose both our senatorial and our flotorial districts. Each will have a representative in the lower house, and both together will have another—a flator.

The People Who Put The Price Down

SENATOR BAILEY IS FULLY EXHONERATED

Austin, Tex., Feb. 28.—After nearly two months' Titanic struggle in the Legislature the controversy concerning United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey came to a close at 9:15 o'clock to-night, when the House by a vote of 70 to 40 adopted a report of the majority of the investigating committee declaring that Senator Bailey was exonerated. Minority reports by Representative Robertson, who held that Bailey had not been guilty of indiscretion in his transactions and in not taking the people into his confidence, and by Representative Jenkins, who protested that the investigation has not been complete, were rejected. Immediately following the announcement of the vote Representative Canales rushed down the central aisle waving a big American flag and immediately thereafter, upon motion of Mr. Bryan, Senator Bailey was invited to address the House. When he appeared, escorted by a special committee, he was taken upon the shoulders of several Representatives and borne to the Speaker's stand, where he delivered a lengthy address. He is to leave to-night for Washington to be sworn in for his second term as Senator on March 4.

WHERE WAS M'GUIRE WHEN OKLAHOMA NEEDED HELP?

Washington, Feb. 27.—The subcommittee which is providing the deficiency bill refused today to put in an item of $138,240 to defray the future estimated expenses of the Oklahoma convention. Col. Owen of Muskogee and Mr. Burleson made arguments for the appropriation. Mr. McGuire, the delegate from Oklahoma, was sent for twice in the hope that he, too, would urge the appropriation, but he could not be found. The reason urged against the appropriation is the fact that never before has a prospective state called on congress to make up a deficit. The matter will be presented to the full committee in the morning. The bill in which it is desired to include this item will be reported not later than Friday. It is well understood here that the republicans hope that the Oklahoma convention will fail in its task, for they believe that such a failure would assure victory for their own party when the work is next undertaken.

TRY THIS FOR BACK-ACHE.

Get from any prescription pharmacy the following:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce.
Compound Kargon, one ounce.
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.
Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by eminent authority as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble and Weak Bladder. This combined mixture should act on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Being composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, it is harmless and inexpensive.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent specialist, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

Postoffice Robbed.

BECAUSE SHE'S A WOMAN.

Criticism of the Gentle Sex Evidently Written by a Bachelor.

She will save and scrimp on the laundry bills, and haggle with the butcher, and make over her last year's hat, and then—she will take all the wealth she has amassed by this painful process and stuff it into a flimsy chate laine bag with a weak clasp and wall serenely down among the 40 thieves of Broadway, says the New York Press.

She will spend hours writing a long letter, imploring an answer by return mail, and then—she will post it without a stamp and without having once mentioned her address.

She will stand before the mirror for 20 minutes putting her hat on at exactly the right angle and will suffer tortures at the sight of a picture that hangs crooked, or a sofa pillow that is turned the wrong way, or a chair that is out of place, and then—she will sign a thousand dollar check upside down.

She will waste a fortune at the masseuse's having her flesh reduced and will walk and bant and exercise herself into nervous hysteria, and then—she will go home and eat enough chocolate fudge to give a strong man fatty degeneration of the chin.

She will cut a woman she dislikes dead in the street and talk about her to the whole community, and then—she will go straight home and wear her fingers out trying to make her hat over like that same woman's.

She will go without a lot of things she really wants, and mend her old clothes until they drop to pieces, and then—she will spend the money she has thus saved on a pink and gilt angel for the parlor mantel.

She will trot around in the rain hunting for three-centers of a yard of ribbon for a new parent hairpin until she is exhausted, ruining her best clothes and wearing her shoes and her nerves to tatters, and then—come home and weep because the dampness has taken the wave out of her fifty-cent marcel.

She will spank her little boy until he cries for mercy because he told a lie about his pet dog and fetched a penny from her pocketbook, and then—she will calmly put him on a street car and look the conductor squarely in the eye while she perjures herself about the boy's age and cheats the car company out of a nickel.

She is a puzzle, an enigma, a paradox, but then—she is a woman.

First Time Under Fire.

"How did you feel the first time you were in battle?" Sergt. J. E. Williams was asked by a Kansas City Star reporter.

"Mighty shaky," the sergeant said. "I was a member of a squad of men, too. My first assignment was in 1899 in the Philippine Islands. I was a corporal then. I belonged to Battery O of the Sixth artillery. We had been in the islands two days and were stationed in Luzon. My squad—seven men and myself—were sent out to do post duty. We started early in the morning and about five o'clock in the evening arrived at our post, a lonely place, overgrown with tropical vegetation and generally depressing. "We camped and—waited. A little after dark I saw a flash from a clump of dark vegetation about a thousand yards away. At the same time I heard a bullet whining over my head. I never was scared so badly before. It seemed that that bullet went right through me. The men were waiting for orders. I tried to give them, but the only result was an inarticulate gurgle. "There I stood, with seven men waiting for orders. My knees were shaking and I felt that every hair on my head was standing on end. Then several more flashes came and one of my men fell, wounded by one of the bullets. "Well, sir, that made me mad. I started to cursing. I swore at every one, the natives, the Philippines, my soldiers. When that man fell all my fear left me."

A Trio of Husbands.

The traveled girl was explaining the strange looking locket she had about her neck on a thin gold chain.

"It is a Buddhist charm," she said, "to keep off bad luck. A swarthy little woman in Tibet gave it to me. She took a great fancy to me. It is handsome, if the back is of tin. The face is of turquoise. They make them like that in Tibet. The little woman's husbands came up to her one by one, begging her to go home with them, but she wouldn't till she had finished talking to me. I felt very much flattered. Oh, yes, she had three husbands. The women are very scarce, you know, in Tibet. It was lovely to see them dancing attendance on her; tall fellows they were, too, and handsome. "She asked me how many husbands I had. It was very humiliating to have to acknowledge to her that I hadn't any," she sighed.

A Real Lemon.

"Talk about a lemon," said a newly engaged man, as he rubbed his hands wildly through his hair. "I thought I was on the wrong track when I asked a girl to marry me. But she accepted all right and I gave her an engagement ring. "Imagine how I felt when I called to take her to the theater last night and she greeted me in a hat trimmed with lemons. I almost fainted at the sight, but apparently she didn't notice my embarrassment, for she smiled sweetly and asked me—how I liked them. And now I'm wondering whether it's all off and whether I'll get back the ring."

ADA, CHICKASAW NATION, INDIAN TERRITORY.

The biggest little city in the new commonwealth. The city that has never experienced either a boom or a blow. During its six years' life it has gradually grown into a commercial and railroad center of 4,600 population. The growth has been natural, solid, and enduring.

Society excellent, good schools and strong churches; unsurpassed agricultural section; six railroad outlets; five more such outlets under contract to build by September, 1907, bonuses are raised.

Veritably Ada

is a city built upon a rock, and it will stand. It is in the logical belt of various mineral resources. Court town for 16th Recording District and unquestionably a county seat under statehood. Not a rival town within a radius of 40 miles. In a cotton country, but not dependent upon cotton. Healthful climate; good water. Low taxes; real estate values reasonable, but rising. Ada is the place pre-eminent to live or invest in. Better get in on the ground floor before the skyscrapers come.

A big Portland cement plant with a pay roll of $3,500 per week, in process of construction; $40,000 worth of waterworks improvement, including a mammoth reservoir to furnish abundant water for factories.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

HEARING APPLICATIONS.

Officials Here to take Testimony on Removal of Restrictions.

Pursuing an itinerary covering the five civilized tribes published some days ago, Messrs. H. C. Cusey and Wm. Kramer, representing the Indian agency, are in Ada today to receive petitions from Indians for the removal of restrictions on sale of land and to take testimony in support thereof.

Up till middle afternoon only ten applications had been filed. Probably the officials will not need to remain here another day as appointed, in which case they will go on to Sulphur. The tour began Feb. 11 and closes April 5. It saves considerable expense to the Indians concerned.

Probably business from now on with Messrs. Pusey and Kramer will pick up—when it is generally realized that there is no chance for any removal of restriction legislation by this congress.

They scowled and look sour from morn till night.

They never would agree; Now they are healthy, happy and bright.

IT IS THE DAY OF THE DANCER

Educated Feet Bring More Salary Than Brains of College Professor.

Dancers enthralled kings; dancers wedding millionaires; dancers buying yachts and automobiles; dancers taking cities by storm and drawing higher salaries than tenors and prima donnas!

This is the record from day to day. The dancer was never more feted more sought for than now.

Truly it is the age for the muse of Terpsichore.

For a time it looked as though dancing were a lost art.

For half a century the art as it has been practiced in the brilliant days of Elslie and Taglioni seemed to have passed. True, the grand opera at Paris still had its ballet, and in all parts of the world the ballet show, as an excuse for displaying the glories of the feminine form divine, continued to hold sway. But it was the loveliness of the woman, not the art of the dancer, that formed the prime requisite.

Now the dancer has come back to her own. The poetry of motion is the aim of the amusement purveyor. He wants the performer who has mastered all the beautiful evolutions that appeal to the eye. She ought to be beautiful, of course, but this is not essential, if she can but dance.

The names of dozens of dancers circulate on account of his persistent attentions to Otero, and it was even said that the crown prince of Germany, now the emperor, was a victim to her charms.

Otero, after a long and varied career, in which at various periods she has been lionized in every capital of Europe, has finally decided to settle down and marry a wealthy Englishman named Webb.

But she will not quit the stage. Like women who once taste the joy of reigning as an empress of the dance, she is determined to continue to pirouette her way into the applause of the multitude, and more now than ever since as a part result of her own inimitable art, dancers all over the world are reaping a harvest such as none could have predicted ten years ago.

The Spanish girl is generally esteemed to be the best dancer, with the Italian second. The daughters of Castile have a dash and passionate abandon that seems to be lacking in other women, who, while they may possess limitless grace, do not imbue the measures of the dance with the proper fire.

In Spain they have never ceased to love the dance. The composers of that country have neglected opera in favor of dance music, because they found in fact the supply is short of the demand. It is the day of the dancer, a time when the properly educated feet of a pretty woman are worth far more in salary than the cultivated brains of a college professor.

ODD NOTIONS OF BEAUTY.

Painting Teeth, Cramping Toes and Breaking Noses Resorted To.

Some ladies in Japan gild their teeth, those of the Indies paint them red and in Guzerat they are dyed black. In Greenland the women color their faces blue and yellow. However fresh the complexion of a Muscovite may be, she would think herself very ugly if she was not plastered over with paint. The Chinese must have their feet as diminutive as those of a goat, and to render them thus their youth is passed in tortures.

In ancient Persia an aquiline nose was often thought worthy of the crown, and if there was any competition between two princes the people generally went by this criterion of majesty.

In some countries the mothers break the noses of their children and in others press the head between two boards that it may become flat. The modern Persians have a strong aversion to red hair. The Turks, on the contrary, are warm admirers of it.

In China small, round eyes are liked and the girls are constantly plucking their eyebrows that they may look thin and loon.

The Turkish women dip a gold brush in the tincture of a black drug which they pass over their eyebrows. It is too visible by day, but looks shining by night. They tinge their nails with a rose color.

An African beauty must have small eyes, thick lips, a large, flat nose and a skin beautifully black.

An ornament for the nose is considered by many as absolutely essential to beauty. The Peruvian women wear a nose ring, the thickness of which is proportioned by the rank of their husbands.

Following the Furniture.

An Irishman whose wife was fond of moving from one house to another was met by a friend the other morning while walking behind a van load of household goods and saluted with: "Hello, Mick! Shifting again? Where might you be going this time?"

"I don't know, begorra," said Mick: "I'm following the furniture to find out."

OLD-FASHIONED PREMIER In days of Elslie and Taglioni.

KING AND KAISER IN BATTLE FOR DUKEDOM

Edward Supports Claims of Duke of Cumberland to Dukedom of Brunswick, While Kaiser Wants Place for His Son.

Germany's kaiser and England's king are engaged in a war of diplomacy for the dukedom of Brunswick.

Each has a candidate for the place of ruler. Edward backs his brother-in-law, the duke of Cumberland; the kaiser is fighting for one of his sons, Prince Eitel Fritz.

The prize is a little strip of land, only 1,424 square miles, and its population is less than half a million. In fact, it is one of the smallest states of those that make up the German empire, yet so keen is the contention that it actually threatens the friendly relations of the millions that make up the population of the two countries.

A few days ago, the duke of Cumberland, an officer in the British army, who is now far along in years, announced his unalterable determination to maintain his right to the throne of Hanover and of Brunswick.

Once the two made one kingdom, but later they were separated by the German government, so that Hanover is now a mere province. If the duke of Cumberland would disavow all claim to Hanover it is barely possible that he might succeed in becoming ruler of Brunswick, but he is obdurate in holding his right to both, and all Europe knows that the power behind him that sustains his courage is the august personality of King Edward VII.

The diet of Brunswick forced the issue last October by giving the duke three months in which to resign his claim to the Hanoverian crown, and thus reconcile himself with Prussia. The diet specified that unless he did so, he must expect to lose all claim to Brunswick, and see another selected to his dukedom. The duke declined, and, as was expected, proposed to leave the question to the imperial courts to decide.

The king of England, in making the fight for Cumberland, and the duke, is contending so that his son, Ernest August, may succeed to the title and income.

To gain an appreciation of the seriousness of the quarrel of the royal rivals for Brunswick it is necessary to go back to the time of George I.

When this king succeeded to the English throne he was both duke of Brunswick and king of Hanover. At that time the German empire had not yet come into existence. The country which the iron hand of Bismarck was to weld into one of the mightiest of modern monarchies was a number of detached and independent states, each having its own ruler.

King Edward is of the house of Brunswick-Hanover, and had no woman ruler of England come between him and his ancestor, George I. King Edward would now be the king of Hanover and duke of Brunswick, as his ancestor was, and this would have prevented the present controversy. But just as women in humbler walks of life upset the plans of men, so do queens change conditions for kings.

The innocent Queen Victoria is really the cause of the present trouble. Under the Salic law she could not inherit Hanover and Brunswick. This made a break in the succession, and they went to her uncle, the duke of Cumberland, eldest surviving son of George III. The present duke of Cumberland and contender for the title is a grandson of the duke, and so far as the validity of his title goes there can be no dissent. It is undeniably correct.

The present duke might have been enjoying all the emoluments of the office without question but for a mistake made by his father in 1866. This was when war broke out between Prussia and Austria. The ruler of Brunswick and Hanover, King George, took sides with Austria, and when Prussia won it took revenge on George by depriving him of his kingdom.

After the death of former King George the present duke of Cumberland made claim to the kingdom of the entire period maintained that he was being illegally deprived of his rights.

Albrecht's death brought Cumberland forth in active campaign, which had the support of Edward. Wilhelm might have listened to the desires of his august uncle, the sovereign of England, had not family matters made him take different view of the situation. As a father he wanted a place for his sons. Not all of them could rule Germany, yet he wished each one to have a place of authority and liberal income, and Brunswick offered the right kind of a berth for his son Eitel.

In the interval the son of the duke of Cumberland had come of age, and it was the desire of the duke to resign in favor of his son, but the German politicians in control of the diet of Brunswick so manipulated that no change could be made in the government of the duchy.

The kaiser was so deeply enraged over the obduracy of the duke of Cumberland that when he met the English claimant at the funeral of King Christian of Denmark last winter he virtually insulted him by the austerity of his salute. Yet Cumberland had perhaps more right at that time than even the kaiser, for he had married the fourth daughter of King Christian in 1878, which act made him a brother-in-law of the wife of England's king, Queen Alexandra.

During the interval since the death of Albrecht, Brunswick has been ruled by a regency, power being vested in the diet of Brunswick, whose chief is Dr. Otto, president of the diet. But now the citizens want a ruler again, and have announced through the diet that they intend to choose one.

Cumberland, they say, can have the place if he will but yield his pretensions to Hanover and gain the friendship of the kaiser, but among diplomats this is thought to be a ruse to persuade Cumberland to yield up his rights and then decline to give him his promised reward.

PRINCE EITEL FRITZ, Second Son of Emperor William.

The duke, who is a reasonably astute observer, has declined to fall into the trap. He demands all or nothing, both his titles, Hanover and Brunswick.

Prince von Buelow, chancellor of the German empire, is leading the battle for the kaiser's second son. He plans to have him as regent, to which office he could be appointed by the kaiser, or as reigning duke, to which position he has no claim, but this could be overlooked if the Brunswick diet vouchsafed him an election.

Only one feature of the controversy can be regarded as certain—the kingdom of Hanover will not be revived. The contention is entirely a matter of who shall come into the dukedom of Brunswick.

There is a third claimant to the title in Prince Frederick William, who is a son of Prince Albrecht, who assumed the title after the death of King George, deprived of the throne, because of his partisanship with Austria during the Prussian war.

If the pretensions of Cumberland can be set aside and the kaiser have his way, it is almost certain that the election of Prince Eitel will follow. Whether King Edward will accept this injustice to one of his relations without protest is an international question that may yet make serious trouble.

Oxygen Derived From Plants.

Lord Kelvin once showed that all the oxygen in the atmosphere probably came from the action of sunlight on plants. When the earth was a globe of hot liquid it contained no vegetable fuel and probably no free oxygen. But as it cooled off plants appeared on its surface and these began to evolve oxygen through the medium of the sunbeams. Upon the oxygen thus derived we depend for the maintenance of life by breathing.

REST A CURE FOR ILLNESS.

Prescribe Six Weeks in Bed for Many Acute Ailments.

It has long been common, says American Medicine, to prescribe "six weeks in bed" for acute rheumatism, tritis and many other "infections." This leads our contemporary to ask whether the custom does not supply the basis for generalization—whether six weeks is not about the length of time the organism requires to gather its forces and manufacture its supplies to defeat an army of invading parasites and repair the damage they inflict.

It is worth thought, says the Baltimore Sun. Even if no great general law can be formulated still "it is a good rule," says our contemporary, to impress on patients—even in trivial complaints—that they must give the body about this much time to recover from a "cold," influenza or a depression brought on by overwork. "Be careful for six weeks" is a good parting blessing from the physician to his discharged patient.

Certain diseases—tuberculosis, for example—often start during the "period of lowered resistance" after apparently trivial complaints. For a child, it is added, the six weeks following measles and whooping cough are generally considered critical. In a general way the six weeks' vacation is wholesome. "Man's natural place," it is argued, "is on the soil as a herdsman or a farmer, who has more than six weeks' rest forced on him every winter. Even the savage hunter labors only intermittently.

DR. A. von OTTO,

Minister of State and Chairman of Regent of Brunswick's Council.

"Modern city dwellers are the only ones who have the delusion that they can drive the human machine without intermissions." The daily and uninterrupted "grind" is against nature and nature resents the violation of her laws.

GARDEN FOR 16 CENTS.

Empty Space in a Back Yard That Was Utilized.

Ben and I are neighbors. There was an empty space in our back yards and we pooled our efforts to make a neighborhood garden, utilizing his practical experiences and my "theories," thus deriving some pleasure from digging in the soil, and incidentally having fresh vegetables during the summer. We bought sixteen penny packages of seeds, ten of flowers and six of vegetables. With line and tape measure we laid out the garden, striving to combine utility with artistic effects in color and arrangement. It is possible for a vegetable garden to be just as interesting and beautiful as a flower garden, and it is more practical, but a combination of the two is the plan par excellence. The garden was twenty feet square. All the paths of the garden were two feet wide. Instead of having a bed of coleus, or other "bedding plant," we had a three-foot border around the entire garden of vegetables.

On the outside edge of the bed was a row of carrots, which were sown very thickly and thinned when the roots were about three inches long. These young carrots are delicious stewed with a few raisins and dressed with cream. By judicious thinning we had carrots until frost.

No Wonder.

Jesse Lynch Williams, the noted playwright and author, commiserated the other day with a literary friend whose new book had been harshly criticised by the reviewers.

"Buck up," said Mr. Williams. "You don't expect the reviewers to be infallible. Why, at luncheon yesterday one of them said to me:

"I get through, on an average, fifty books a week."

"Good gracious!" said I. "How do you manage it? Why, it takes me at least a day to read one book."

"I don't read them, sir," said he. "I review them."

Regular Snap.

Stranger—Gracious! But you are a neat-looking little boy.

Tommy Tuff—Yessum. You see, I washed me face six times to-day.

Stranger—Six times? Why, you are almost an angel.

Tommy Tuff—Yessum! Every time I wash my face I know where to get a free Sunday school dinner.

Trouble Enough.

"I saw the doctor stop at your house this morning," said Rubring; "any trouble?"

"Yes," replied Hardpan, "I had a great deal of trouble."

"What was the matter?"

"He wouldn't go away until I gave him $5 on his last year's bill."

? WHY PAY RENT ?

Buy a Home of Your Own in the beautiful CAPITOL HILL ADDITION. We have recently purchased the seventy acres of the old Brevard school, and have platted it in acre lots with wide streets and alleys. This property is nicely situated, being within from 8 to 10 blocks of the center of the business portion of Ada. We expect to give you a chance to own a valuable lot in the capital of Pontotoc county by selling these lots on the installment plan.

Ada is now the county seat, and has a great future before it. We have three railroads with a prospect of two more, a cotton compress, a cotton oil mill, a pressed brick plant, and numerous smaller industries. Also have a large cement plant under construction that will employ 250 men, there is under construction a canning factory and the city is spending $40,000 on additional water works.

WHY SHOULD ADA NOT GROW?

CAPITOL HILL lies northeast of the business portion of the city, and has a fine view of the city. Plenty of good water at from 15 to 20 feet.

BEGINNING OF THE END OF ADA'S FEDERAL COURT

The letter published below would indicate Ada's career as a full fledged federal court town is already ended. It is inferable that no more grand juries will be empaneled here; that future felonious prisoners in this vicinity will be subject to the action of grand juries at Ardmore, which remains a federal court town under statehood; that the June term of court at Ada will be exclusively a clearing up term which will entertain no new business.

The letter in question follows:
Mr. Ed Brents,
Office Deputy Marshal,
Ada, Indian Territory.

Dear Sir: Regarding bonds for appearance of defendants arrested on bench warrants you are respectfully advised that these bonds should be made returnable for the Ada Court on June 1, 1907.

U. S. Commissioner Winn has been directed to commit prisoners upon preliminary examinations for felony to answer to the Grand Jury at the U. S. Court at Ardmore on April 29, 1907, and in case these defendants execute bail that the bond be made returnable to Ardmore to answer the orders of the court in matters pending before the Grand Jury.

Very respectfully,
G. A. Porter,
United States Marshal.

JIM CROW PROVISION DIES BY FINAL VOTE OF 46 TO 31

Guthrie, Ok., Feb. 28.—The Jim Crow provision was killed in committee of the whole in convention yesterday by a vote of 46 to 31. The special legal committee reported immediately following the reading of which the separate coach and waiting room provision was called up and a motion made to table it.

This ends one of the most spirited contests the convention has witnessed. It was led by Messrs. Haskell, Hayes and Henshaw.

It refused to adopt a provision under which prohibits aliens and corporations from holding or owning lands in Oklahoma. However, the latter may own sufficient land to conveniently operate their business.

It refused to adopt a provision under which the Legislature might place in operation the Torrens system of land registration.

The office of Labor Commissioner was created, the occupant to be elected by the people. Eight hours is declared a legal day in all State, county and municipal work.

The report on municipal corporations was partially adopted, except the privilege to frame charters was given to all cities of 2,000 people instead of 3,500. Under this provision any city desiring to adopt the commission form of government is at liberty to do so.

Work on committee of the whole which carries provisions to the point on final passage is about completed. A call of the committees developed there were only five more to fully report.

The committee on general provisions has recommended the adoption in the Constitution of a prohibition against bucket shops or stock exchanges, and to engage in the business of selling options

OUR JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Likely to be Composed of Five Neighboring Counties.

A telephone message from Guthrie today says it is practically settled by the committee having the apportionment in hand that this judicial district will be composed of these five counties: Pontotoc, Seminole, Coal, Atoka, Johnston.

Such district would include considerable railroad and mining interests. Under statehood each county would keep the district court busy from two to three months in the year.

The Guthrie message also says probably the work of the convention body will be finished by the last of next week, when all delegates will go home only to return later and adopt the work of the committee on style and arrangement.

or, futures or contracting for future delivery of any product of farm or labor, stock security when the actual delivery is not contemplated. The Legislature is authorized to name the penalty.

R. Sarils, a South McAlester business man, telegraphs the convention he will be one of fifty to make a purse of $50,000 to defray the expenses in framing a Constitution, and when the others have done likewise to draw on him for $1,000.

TRIBAL OFFICIALS WATCH FINAL CLOSING OF ROLLS

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 28.—Tribal officials are gathering in Muskogee to watch the final closing of roll for Indian citizenship. After ten years the rolls of the five civilized tribes are about to be closed and after four days more no applications or evidence in an enrollment case will be heard.

Governor McCurtain of the Ictaws, Governor Johnston of the Chickasaws, W. W. Hastings attorney for the Cherokees, and J. P. Farnsworth attorney for the Creeks are here as was Melvin Cornish attorney for the Ictaws and Chickasaws and George St. secretary for the Choctaw nation for the purpose of seeing that no person entitled to enrollment slips lat the last moment.

Congress provided last year at after March 4, 1907, no application or evidence in enrollment cases should be heard, and no citizenship case could be reopened, even upon order of the secretary of the interior, and the enrollment work of the five tribes should close on that day. The secretary of the interior tried in many ways to get legislation through the present congress to repeal the law, but it was bitterly opposed.

the nations and by Commissioner Bixby also. All of the tribes have been trying to get the rolls finally closed for five years.

The enrollment work was the biggest job the department of the interior has handled for a long time. While the enrollment work was in progress the allotting work was also being carried forward and it has been kept up comparatively close. The one great impediment to winding up the work of the final settlement of the Indian estate was to get the rolls closed so that they could not be disturbed. This is now about to be accomplished. Until it was done the secretary of the interior was constantly ordering cases reopened which would set the work back months at a time. This he will be unable to do after March 4.

The secretary of the interior has to pass on all citizenship matters before him before March 4 and there are hundreds of cases now in his hands. Until he has passed on these it will be impossible to tell how many people have been admitted to citizenship for allotments, but in round numbers it is about 90,000. There have been 250,000 applicants. Less than one out of every five applicants was admitted.

SENATOR BAILEY IS FULLY EXHONERATED

Austin, Tex., Feb. 28.—After nearly two months' Titanic struggle in the Legislature the controversy concerning United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey came to a close at 9:15 o'clock tonight, when the House by a vote of 70 to 40 adopted a report of the majority of the investigating committee declaring that Senator Bailey was exonerated. Minority reports by Representative Robertson, who held that Bailey had not been guilty of indiscretion in his transactions and in not taking the people into his confidence, and by Representative Jenkins, who protested that the investigation has not been complete, were rejected. Immediately following the announcement of the vote Representative Canales rushed down the central aisle waving a big American flag and immediately thereafter, upon motion of Mr. Bryan, Senator Bailey was invited to address the House. When he appeared, escorted by a special committee, he was taken upon the shoulders of several Representatives and borne to the Speaker's stand, where he delivered a lengthy address. He is to leave tonight for Washington to be sworn in for his second term as Senator on March 4.

WHERE WAS M'GUIRE WHEN OKLAHOMA NEEDED HELP?

Washington, Feb. 27.—The subcommittee which is providing the deficiency bill refused today to put in an item of $138,240 to defray the future estimated expenses of the Oklahoma convention. Col. Owen of Muskogee and Mr. Burleson made arguments for the appropriation. Mr. McGuire, the delegate from Oklahoma, was sent for twice in the hope that he, too, would urge the appropriation, but he could not be found. The reason urged against the appropriation is the fact that never before has a prospective state called on congress to make up a deficit. The matter will be presented to the full committee in the morning. The bill in which it is desired to include this item will be reported not later than Friday. It is well understood here that the republicans hope that the Oklahoma convention will fail in its task, for they believe that such a failure would assure victory for their own party when the work is next undertaken.

TRY THIS FOR BACK-ACHE.

Get from any prescription pharmacy the following:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce.

Compound Kargon, one ounce.
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.

The above is considered by eminent authority as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble and Weak Bladder. This combined mixture should act on the eliminative tissues of the kidneys to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.

Being composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, it is harmless and inexpensive.

Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent specialist, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

Postoffice Robbed.

Ardmore, I. T., Feb. 27.—The postoffice at Russell in this county was entered by burglars some time during the night and all valuables taken, including stamps and several letters. The loss amounted to about $200. No clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

Maj. Smith, Deceased.

Howard Parker of the News editorial staff informs the editor that his grandfather Maj. A. L. Smith, aged 80 years, quietly passed away Monday. The deceased was one of the landmarks of Northeast Texas. He lived a long and useful career. His perfect Christian character allied with his splendid intellectual attributes blessed those among whom he lived with inspiration to go higher and be better. This patriarch who has now gone to reap his great reward is survived by several noble daughters and one son, the latter being the very distinguished Baptist divine, W. R. L. Smith, of Richmond, Virginia.

BECAUSE SHE'S A WOMAN.

Criticism of the Gentle Sex Evidently Written by a Bachelor.

She will save and scrimp on the laundry bills, and haggle with the butcher, and make over her last year's hat and then—she will take all the wealth she has amassed by this painful process and stuff it into a flimsy chaste laine bag with a weak clasp and wall serenely down among the 40 thieves of Broadway, says the New York Press.

She will spend hours writing a long letter, imploring an answer by return mail, and then—she will post it with out a stamp and without having once mentioned her address.

She will stand before the mirror for 20 minutes putting her hat on at exactly the right angle and will suffer tortures at the sight of a picture that hangs crooked or a sofa pillow that is turned the wrong way or a chair that is out of place, and then—she will sign a thousand dollar check upside down.

She will waste a fortune at the masseuse's having her flesh reduced and will walk and bant and exercise herself into nervous hysteria and then—she will go home and eat enough chocolate fudge to give a strong man fatty degeneration of the chin.

She will cut a woman she dislikes dead in the street and talk about her to the whole community and then—she will go straight home and wear her fingers out trying to make her hat over like that same woman's.

She will do a lot of things she really wants and mind her old clothes until they drop to pieces and then—she will send the money she has thus saved to a purg and gift an el fin to the nautel.

She will do a lot of things she really wants and mind her old clothes until they drop to pieces and then—she will send the money she has thus saved to a purg and gift an el fin to the nautel.

She will spank her little boy until he cries for mercy because he told a lie about his pet dog, and flicked a penny from her pocket book and then—she will calmly put him on a street car and look the conductor squarely in the eye while she perjures herself about the boy's age and cheats the car company out of a nickel.

She is a puzzle an enigma a paradox but then—she is a woman.

First Time Under Fire

How did you feel the first time you were in battle? Sergeant J. L. Williams was asked by a Kansas City Star reporter.

Mighty shaky, the sergeant said. My first battle was a squall of men too. My first battle was in 1899 in the Philippines. I was a corporal then. I had been in the islands two days and were stationed in Luzon. My squad—seven men and myself—were sent out to do post duty. We started early in the morning and about five o'clock in the evening arrived at our post, a lonely place overgrown with tropical vegetation and generally depressing.

We camped and waited. A little after dark I saw a flash from a clump of dark vegetation about a thousand yards away. At the same time I heard a bullet whining over my head. I never was scared so badly before. It seemed that that bullet went right through me. The men were waiting for orders. I tried to give them, but the only result was an inarticulate gurgle.

There I stood with seven men waiting for orders. My knees were shaking and I felt that every hair on my head was standing on end. Then several more flashes came and one of my men fell wounded by one of the bullets.

Well, sir that made me mad. I started to crying. I swore at every one the natives the Philippines my soldiers. When that man fell all my fear left me.

A Trio of Husbands.

The traveled girl was explaining the strange looking locket she had about her neck on a thin gold chain.

"It is a Buddhist charm," she said "to keep off bad luck. A swarthy lit the woman in Tibet gave it to me. She took a great fancy to me. It is hard some if the back is of tin. The face is of turquoise. They make them like that in Tibet. The little woman's husband came up to her one by one begging her to go home with them but she wouldn't till she had finished talking to me. I felt very much flattered. Oh, yes she had three husbands. The women are very scarce you know, in Tibet. It was lovely to see them dancing attendance on her, tall fellows they were, too, and hand some."

"She asked me how many husbands I had. It was very humiliating to have to acknowledge to her that I hadn't any," she sighed.

A Real Lemon.

"Talk about a lemon," said a newly engaged man, as he rubbed his hands wildly through his hair. "I thought I was on the wrong track when I asked a girl to marry me. But she accepted all right and I gave her an engagement ring."

Imagine how I felt when I called to take her to the theater last night and she greeted me in a hat trimmed with lemons. I almost fainted at the sight, but apparently she didn't notice my embarrassment, for she smiled sweetly and asked me—how I liked them. And now I'm wondering whether it's all off and whether I'll get back the ring."

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and thus, it matters not how small is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

Love and pathos intermingled with contagious humor, framed in a picture of rural simplicity are the rudiments of success of "Along the Kennebec," the newest New England play which will be the attraction at the Ada Opera house Friday night. No play written on this popular theme has proven more successful and it bids fair to rival in popularity the most attractive plays of modern times. Special care has been taken in securing the company and the scenic production is unsurpassed. The piece is full of good bright comedy and the funny duel scene causes screams of laughter. HEARING APPLICATIONS.

Officials Here to take Testimony on Removal of Restrictions.

Pursuing an itinerary covering the five civilized tribes published some days ago, Messrs. H. C. Cusey and Wm. Kramer, representing the Indian agency, are in Ada today to receive petitions from Indians for the removal of restrictions on sale of land and to take testimony in support thereof.

Up till middle afternoon only ten applications had been filed. Probably the officials will not need to remain here another day as appointed, in which case they will go on to Sulphur. The tour began Feb. 11 and closes April 5. It saves considerable expense to the Indians concerned.

Probably business from now on with Messrs. Pusey and Kramer will pick up—when it is generally realized that there is no chance for any removal of restriction legislation by this congress.

They scowled and look sour from morn till night,
They never would agree;
Now they are healthy, happy and bright.

She was tall and slender and intelligent. The Chinese mistook her for a student with a foreign education and then thought her a Chinese. She was a good teacher in a public school and was not without the common sense that was my companion. I saw her twice during the trip and she would be thus a common acquaintance.

In some countries the mothers bring the noses of their children and mothers press the head between two hands so that it may become flat. The mother of this Chinese girl was an aversion to it. The Turks on the contrary do it with admiration.

In China and in many places we like the girls are constantly plucked so that they are flat they may be thin and too.

The Turkish women dip their hair in the texture of a black hrag and then they press it between their hands. It is visible by day but looks shining by night. They dress their nails with a rose color.

An African beauty must have small eyes, thick lips, a large flat nose and a skin naturally black.

An ornament for the nose is considered by many absolutely essential to beauty. The Persian woman has a nose ring, the thickness which is proportioned by the number of husbands.

An Irishman whose wife was fond of moving from one house to another was met by a friend the other morning while walking behind a van loaded with household goods and saluted with "Hello, Mick! Edward Supports Claims of Duke of Cumberland to Dukehom of Brunswick, While Kaiser Wants
Place for His Son.

PRINCE EITEL FRITZ,
Second Son of Emperor William

The duke, who is a reasonably intelligent observer, has declined to fill in the gap. He demands all or nothing, both his titles, Hanover and Brunswick.

Prince von Buelow, chamberlain of the German empire, is leading the fight for the latter's second son. He plans to have him as regent to which office he could be appointed by the Kaiser or is regent, duke to which position he has no claim but this could be overlooked if the Brunswick diet voted him an election.

Only one feature of the controversy can be regarded as certain—the kingdom of Hanover will not be revived. The contention is chiefly a matter of who shall come into the dukedom of Brunswick.

There is a third claimant to the title. Prince Frederick William, who is a son of Prince Albert, who was given the title after the death of King George deprived of the throne because of his participation with Austria during the Prussian war.

If the pretensions of Cumberland can be set aside and the Kaiser has his way it is almost certain that the election of Prince Fritol will follow. Whether King Edward will accept this injustice to one of his relations without protest is an international question that may yet make serious trouble.

THE DUKE OF CUMBERLAND

Hanover, but not only were his rights scornfully denied, but Germany absorbed Hanover as a mere province. Nor could the duke of Cumberland even take his place of duke of Brunswick. The disloyalty of his father was advanced as a disqualification.

Albrecht of Prussia, nephew of Kaiser Wilhelm I and cousin of the present Kaiser, was made regent of Brunswick.

Matters remained in this condition till the death of Albrecht, Sept. 13 last, when the duke of Cumberland, having during

GARDEN FOR 16 CENTS

Empty Space in a Back Yard That Was Utilized

Ben and I are neighbors. There was an empty space in our back yard and we made long efforts to make a nice garden. Ben and I began by getting experiences and by theories. I had living some plants from friends in the soil and incidentally having fresh seeds here, during the summer. We began sowing a penny packet of seeds, ten of flowers and six of vegetables. With time and care, we had out the garden staying continually with artistic effect. I consider it a triumph. It is so successful a vegetable garden to be just interesting and beautiful. A flower garden and it is more practical. A combination of the two is the plan of excellence. The garden was twenty feet square. All the parts of the garden were two feet wide. Instead of having a bed of cabbages or other bedding plant, we had a three-foot border around the entire garden with vegetables.

On the outside edge of the bed was a row of carrots, which were so very thickly and thinned when the roots were about three inches long. These young carrots are delicious with cream. By autumn, I had a row of carrots until frost.

VOLUME 8

ADA, INDIAN TERRITORY, THURSDAY EVENING, FEBRUARY 28, 1907

NUMBER 292

? WHY PAY RENT ?

By a Home of Your Own in the beautiful CAPITOL HILL ADDITION. We have recently purchased the seventy acres of the old Brevard school, and have platted it in acre lots with wide streets and alleys. This property is nicely situated, being within from 8 to 10 blocks of the center of the business portion of Ada. We expect to give you a chance to own a valuable lot in the capital of Pontotoc county by selling these lots on the installment plan. Ada is now the county seat, and has a great future before it. We have three railroads with a prospect of two more, a cotton compress, a cotton oil mill, a pressed brick plant, and numerous smaller industries. Also have a large cement plant under construction that will employ 250 men, there is under construction a canning factory and the city is spending $40,000 on additional water works.

WHY SHOULD ADA NOT GROW?

CAPITOL HILL lies northeast of the business portion of the city, and has a fine view of the city. Plenty of good water at from 15 to 20 feet. If you expect to grow up with the town now is the time to GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR. We also do a general Real Estate and Insurance business. See us for any business in our line. Office first door west of the Harris hotel.

BEGINNING OF THE END OF ADA'S FEDERAL COURT

The letter published below would indicate Ada's career as a full fledged federal court town is already ended. It is inferable that no more grand juries will be empanelled here; that future felonious prisoners in this vicinity will be subject to the action of grand juries at Ardmore, which remains a federal court town under statehood; that the June term of court at Ada will be exclusively a clearing up term which will entertain no new business.

The letter in question follows:
Mr. Ed Brents,
Office Deputy Marshal,
Ada, Indian Territory.

Dear Sir: Regarding bonds for appearance of defendants arrested on bench warrants you are respectfully advised that these bonds should be made returnable for the Ada Court on June 1, 1907.

U. S. Commissioner Winn has been directed to commit prisoners upon preliminary examinations for felony to answer to the Grand Jury at the U. S. Court at Ardmore on April 29, 1907, and in case these defendants execute bail that the bond be made returnable to Ardmore to answer the orders of the court in matters pending before the Grand Jury.

Very respectfully,
G. A. Porter,
United States Marshal.

FURNITURE

ON Easy Payment Plan

W. C. DUNCAN will sell you Furniture on the Easy Payment plan, so that those WITHOUT MONEY may buy as well as those with money. We have confidence in our town and think her prospects are brightening. Business is improving and labor is now all employed at good wages and the outlook is that it will continue to be so employed. Therefore now is the time to buy. We are willing to furnish your homes on the prospect of your future earnings. DON'T GO IN TOO DEEP, but buy what you can pay for in a few weeks and then buy again. We will be right here to sell you. In a short time you can furnish your home nicely and not miss the money.

DON'T FORGET that we buy SECOND HAND FURNITURE. Don't make the mistake of selling your goods without letting us bid on them. It won't cost you anything and may make you some money. We also exchange NEW GOODS for OLD and they may all go on the installment plan.

Also kindly remember that we carry a large line of Coffins, Caskets and Undertaking Goods and have a hearse and a licensed embalmer who will take complete charge of funerals when requested so to do without extra charge.

Keep your eye on this space, but don't wait until you see what you want advertised. It costs too much to advertise all our goods, but come straight to our store and tell us what you want. We will fix you up and guarantee satisfaction.

JIM CROW PROVISION DIES BY FINAL VOTE OF 46 TO 31

Guthrie, Ok., Feb. 28.—The Jim Crow provision was killed in committee of the whole in convention yesterday by a vote of 46 to 31. The special legal committee reported immediately following the reading of which the separate coach and waiting room provision was called up and a motion made to table it.

This ends one of the most spirited contests the convention has witnessed. It was led by Messrs. Haskell, Hayes and Henshaw.

It refused to adopt a provision under which prohibits aliens and corporations from holding or owning lands in Oklahoma. However, the latter may own sufficient land to conveniently operate their business.

It refused to adopt a provision under which the Legislature might place in operation the Torrens system of land registration.

The office of Labor Commissioner was created, the occupant to be elected by the people. Eight hours is declared a legal day in all State, county and municipal work.

The report on municipal corporations was partially adopted, except the privilege to frame charters was given to all cities of 2,000 people instead of 3,500. Under this provision any city desiring to adopt the commission form of government is at liberty to do so.

Work on committee of the whole which carries provisions to the point on final passage is about completed. A call of the committees developed there were only five more to fully report.

The committee on general provisions has recommended the adoption in the Constitution of a prohibition against bucket shops or stock exchanges, and charge in the business of selling options

OUR JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

Likely to be Composed of Five Neighboring Counties.

A telephone message from Guthrie today says it is practically settled by the committee having the apportionment in hand that this judicial district will be composed of these five counties: Pontotoc, Seminole, Coal, Atoka, Johnston.

Such district would include considerable railroad and mining interests. Under statehood each county would keep the district court busy from two to three months in the year.

The Guthrie message also says probably the work of the convention body will be finished by the last of next week, when all delegates will go home only to return later and adopt the work of the committee on style and arrangement.

or futures or contracting for future delivery of any product of farm or labor, stock security when the actual delivery is not contemplated. The Legislature is authorized to name the penalty.

R. Sarils, a South McAlester business man, telegraphs the convention he will be one of fifty to make a purse of $50,000 to defray the expenses in framing a Constitution, and when the others are done likewise to draw on him for $1,000.

TRIBAL OFFICIALS WATCH FINAL CLOSING OF ROLLS

Muskogee, I. T., Feb. 28.—Tribal officials are gathering in Muskogee to watch the final closing of roll for Indian citizenship. After ten years the rolls of the five civilized tribes are about to be closed and after four days more no applications or evidence in an enrollment case will be heard.

Governor McCurtain of the Oklahoma, Governor Johnston of the Chickasaws, W. W. Hastings attorney for the Cherokees, and J. P. Farnsworth attorney for the Creeks are here as was Melvin Cornish attorney for the Ictaw and Chickasaws and George St. secretary for the Choctaw nation for the purpose of seeing that no plea not entitled to enrollment slips at the last moment.

Congress provided last year at after March 4, 1907, no application or evidence in enrollment cases should be heard, and no citizenship case could be reopened, even upon order of the secretary of the interior, and the enrollment work of the five tribes should close on that day. The secretary of the interior tried in many ways to get legislation through the present congress to repeal the law, but it was bitterly opposed.

the nations and by Commissioner Bixby also. All of the tribes have been trying to get the rolls finally closed for five years.

The enrollment work was the biggest job the department of the interior has handled for a long time. While the enrollment work was in progress the allotting work was also being carried forward and it has been kept up comparatively close. The one great impediment to winding up the work of the final settlement of the Indian estate was to get the rolls closed so that they could not be disturbed. This is now about to be accomplished. Until it was done the secretary of the interior was constantly ordering cases reopened which would set the work back months at a time. This he will be unable to do after March 4.

The secretary of the interior has to pass on all citizenship matters before him before March 4 and there are hundreds of cases now in his hands. Until he has passed on these it will be impossible to tell how many people have been admitted to citizenship for allotments, but in round numbers it is about 50,000. There have been 250,000 applicants. Less than one out of every five applicants was admitted.

PONTOTOC AND SEMINOLE OUR FLORIAL DISTRICT

The legislative districts, forty Senatorial and 106 Representative, were reported to the convention Wednesday. Previously, however, the report fixing the maximum number of Senators at forty was reconsidered and one more district authorized. It was estimated that upon anything like a normal election the Legislature would have a Democratic membership of eighty in the House and thirty in the Senate.

According to the first report prepared by the committee Pontotoc was joined with Coal county to form a florior district. As it now stands, however, Pontotoc and Seminole counties compose both our senatorial and

SENATOR BAILEY IS FULLY EXHONERATED

Austin, Tex., Feb. 28.—After nearly two months' Titanic struggle in the Legislature the controversy concerning United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey came to a close at 9:15 o'clock to-night, when the House by a vote of 70 to 40 adopted a report of the majority of the investigating committee declaring that Senator Bailey was exonerated. Minority reports by Representative Robertson, who held that Bailey had not been guilty of indiscretion in his transactions and in not taking the people into his confidence, and by Representative Jenkins, who protested that the investigation has not been complete, were rejected.

Immediately following the announcement of the vote Representative Canales rushed down the central aisle waving a big American flag and immediately thereafter, upon motion of Mr. Bryan, Senator Bailey was invited to address the House. When he appeared, escorted by a special committee, he was taken upon the shoulders of several Representatives and borne to the Speaker's stand, where he delivered a lengthy address. He is to leave to-night for Washington to be sworn in for his second term as Senator on March 4.

WHERE WAS M'GUIRE WHEN OKLAHOMA NEEDED HELP?

Washington, Feb. 27.—The subcommittee which is providing the deficiency bill refused today to put in an item of $138,240 to defray the future estimated expenses of the Oklahoma convention. Col. Owen of Muskogee and Mr. Burleson made arguments for the appropriation. Mr. McGuire, the delegate from Oklahoma, was sent for twice in the hope that he, too, would urge the appropriation, but he could not be found.

The reason urged against the appropriation is the fact that never before has a prospective state called on congress to make up a deficit. The matter will be presented to the full committee in the morning. The bill in which it is desired to include this item will be reported not later than Friday.

It is well understood here that the republicans hope that the Oklahoma convention will fail in its task, for they believe that such a failure would assure victory for their own party when the work is next undertaken.

He is to leave tonight for Washington to be sworn in for his second term as Senator on March 4.

WHERE WAS M'GUIRE WHEN OKLAHOMA NEEDED HELP?

Washington, Feb. 27.—The subcommittee which is providing the deficiency bill refused today to put in an item of $138,240 to defray the future estimated expenses of the Oklahoma convention. Col. Owen of Muskogee and Mr. Burleson made arguments for the appropriation. Mr. McGuire, the delegate from Oklahoma, was sent for twice in the hope that he, too, would urge the appropriation, but he could not be found. The reason urged against the appropriation is the fact that never before has a prospective state called on congress to make up a deficit. The matter will be presented to the full committee in the morning. The bill in which it is desired to include this item will be reported not later than Friday. It is well understood here that the republicans hope that the Oklahoma convention will fail in its task, for they believe that such a failure would assure victory for their own party when the work is next undertaken.

TRY THIS FOR BACK-ACHE.

Get from any prescription pharmacy the following:
Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce.
Compound Kargon, one ounce.
Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.
Shake well in a bottle and take a teaspoonful dose after each meal and at bedtime.
The above is considered by eminent authority as the finest prescription ever written to relieve Backache, Kidney Trouble and Weak Bladder. This combined mixture should act on the eliminative tissues of the Kidneys to filter and strain the uric acid and other waste matter from the blood which causes Rheumatism.
Being composed entirely of vegetable ingredients, it is harmless and inexpensive.
Mix some and give it a trial. It certainly comes highly recommended. It is the prescription of an eminent specialist, whose entire reputation, it is said, was established by it.

Postoffice Robbed.

Ardmore, I. T., Feb. 27.—The postoffice at Russell in this county was entered by burglars some time during the night and all valuables taken, including stamps and several letters. The loss amounted to about $200. No clue to the perpetrators of the deed.

Maj. Smith, Deceased.

Howard Parker of the News editorial staff informs the editor that his grandfather Maj. A. L. Smith aged 80 years, quietly passed away Monday. The deceased was one of the landmarks of Northeast Texas. He lived a long and useful career. His perfect Christian character allied with his splendid intellectual attributes blessed those among whom he lived with inspiration to go higher and be better. This patriarch who has now gone to reap his great reward is survived by several noble daughters and one son, the latter being the very distinguished Baptist divine, W. R. L. Smith, of Richmond Virginia.

BECAUSE SHE'S A WOMAN.

Criticisms of the Gentle Sex Evidently Written by a Bachelor.

She will save and scrimp on the laundry bills, and haggle with the butcher, and make over her last year's hat and then—she will take all the wealth she has amassed by this painful process and stuff it into a flimsy chaste lisle bag with a weak clasp and wall serenely down among the 40 thieves of Broadway, says the New York Press.

She will spend hours writing a long letter, imploring an answer by return mail, and then—she will post it with out a stamp and without having once mentioned her address.

She will stand before the mirror for 20 minutes putting her hat on at exactly the right angle and will suffer tortures at the sight of a picture that hangs crooked or a sofa pillow that is turned the wrong way or a chair that is out of place, and then—she will sign a thousand dollar check upside down.

She will waste a fortune at the masseuse's having her flesh reduced and will walk and bant and exercise herself into nervous hysteria, and then—she will go home and eat enough chocolate fudge to give a strong man fatty degeneration of the chin.

She will cut a woman she dislikes dead in the street and talk about her to the whole community and then—she will go straight home and wear her fingers out trying to make her hat over like the other women's.

She will sit with a lot of things she really wants and guard her old clothes and her old pictures and her—she will send the money she has thus saved to a pawnshop and get an old-fashioned ring.

She will sit in the rain hunting for a man of a kind of this kind of thing, but best of this is a woman who has her nerves to the point of the business has taken the worst out of her fifty-cent match.

She will spank her little boy until he cries for mercy because he told a lie about his pet dog, and then—she will calmly put him on a street car and look the conductor squarely in the eye while she polishes herself about the boys' age and chaunts the car company out of a nickel.

She is a puzzle an enigma a paradox but then—she is a woman.

First Time Under Fire

How did you feel the first time you were in battle? Sergeant J. L. Williams was asked by a Kansas City Star reporter.

"Mighty shaky," the sergeant said. "I was in the Philippines in 1899 in the Philippine Islands. I was a corporal then. I was in the 10th Infantry. I had been in the islands two days and were stationed in Luzon. My squad—seven men and myself—were sent out to do post duty. We started early in the morning and about five o'clock in the evening arrived at our post, a lonely place overgrown with tropical vegetation and generally depressing.

We camped and waited. A little after dark I saw a flash from a clump of dark vegetation about a thousand yards away. At the same time I heard a bullet whizzing over my head. I never was scared so badly before. It seemed that that bullet went right through me. The men were waiting for orders. I tried to give them but the only result was an inarticulate gurgle.

There I stood with seven men waiting for orders. My knees were shaking and I felt that every hair on my head was standing on end. Then several more flashes came and one of my men fell wounded by one of the bullets.

Well sir that made me mad. I started to cursing. I swore at every one the natives the Philippines my soldiers. When that man fell all my fear left me."

A Trio of Husbands.

The traveled girl was explaining the strange looking locket she had about her neck on a thin gold chain.

"It is a Buddhist charm," she said "to keep off bad luck. A swarthy little woman in Tibet gave it to me. She took a great fancy to me. It is hand some if the back is of tin. The face is of turquoise. They make them like that in Tibet. The little woman's hands came up to her one by one begging her to go home with them but she wouldn't till she had finished talking to me. I felt very much flattered. Oh, yes she had three husbands. The women are very scarce you know, in Tibet. It was lovely to see them dancing attendance on her, tall fellows they were, too, and hand some."

"She asked me how many husbands I had. It was very humiliating to have to acknowledge to her that I hadn't any," she sighed.

A Real Lemon.

"Talk about a lemon," said a newly engaged man, as he rubbed his hands wildly through his hair. "I thought I was on the wrong track when I asked a girl to marry me. But she accepted all right and I gave her an engagement ring."

Imagine how I felt when I called to take her to the theater last night and she greeted me in a hat trimmed with lemons. I almost fainted at the sight, but apparently she didn't notice my embarrassment, for she smiled sweetly and asked me—how I liked them. Ada now I'm wondering whether it's all on and whether I'll get back the ring."

ADA, CHICKASAW NATION, INDIAN TERRITORY.

The biggest little city in the new commonwealth. The city that has never experienced either a boom or a blow. During its six years' life it has gradually grown into a commercial and railroad center of 4,600 population. The growth has been natural, solid, and enduring.

Society excellent, good schools and strong churches, unsurpassed agricultural section, six railroad outlets, five more such outlets under contract to build by September, 1907, bonuses are raised.

Veritably Ada

is a city built upon a rock, and it will stand. It is in the logical belt of various mineral resources. Court town for 16th Recording District and unquestionably a county seat under statehood.

Not a rival town within a radius of 40 miles. In a cotton country, but not dependent upon cotton. Healthful climate, good water. Low taxes, real estate values reasonable but rising. Ada is the place pre-eminent to live or invest in. Better get in on the ground floor before the skyscrapers come.

A big Portland cement plant with a pay roll of $3,500 per week, in process of construction, $40,000 worth of waterworks improvement, including a mammoth reservoir to furnish abundant water for factories.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

Officials Here to take Testimony on Removal of Restrictions.

Pursuing an itinerary covering the five civilized tribes published some days ago, Messrs. H. C. Cusey and Wm. Kramer, representing the Indian agency, are in Ada today to receive petitions from Indians for the removal of restrictions on sale of land and to take testimony in support thereof.

Up till middle afternoon only ten applications had been filed. Probably the officials will not need to remain here another day as appointed, in which case they will go on to Sulphur. The tour began Feb. 11 and closes April 5. It saves considerable expense to the Indians concerned.

Probably business from now on with Messrs. Cusey and Kramer will pick up—when it is generally realized that there is no chance for any removal of restriction legislation by this congress.

They scowled and look sour from morn till night,

They never would agree; Now they are healthy, happy and bright.
